

KASTHALL

Since 1889, Kasthall's factory in Kinna, Sweden, has been creating rugs using the finest materials with unique craftsmanship, innovation and constantly challenging design. Our products must fulfill all the requirements for a long life, and our long-term aim is to minimize our environmental footprint and strive to have only a positive impact.

The environmental perspective has a clear role in Kasthall's cornerstones.

Design and Innovation	Design and develop quality products with a long life, choosing renewable materials and processes that have a minimal, or positive, environmental impact.
Tailor Made Solutions	Everything is made to order and with a long-term perspective in mind, so no natural resources are wasted on excess production.
Premium	Our profile must fulfill high expectations of materials and performance.
Heritage and Craftsmanship	By taking responsibility for our production today, we are also taking responsibility for the future – both what happens in our factory and so that our products have a long life and become part of history in the future.
Passionate and Skilled People	Skilled and committed workers play a major part in our long-term, sustainable approach.
Sustainable	Our responsibility for the environment extends throughout the production chain and includes everything from the materials we choose for our products to production, transport and waste, emissions to air and water, and options for recycling and reuse.

To get there

- We have leaders committed to our environmental work and a clear strategy.
- We have committed, skilled and conscious employees who are involved in our environmental work and continually follow up on our environmental goals.
- We work in active partnership with our suppliers to achieve continual improvements upstream in the production chain.
- We protect the environment by setting environmental goals for our main environmental aspects, while also incorporating national goals and global sustainability goals into our work.
- We have our products environmentally audited by external parties.
- We draw up binding requirements in a proactive way – for example, we see legislation as a minimum level and work according to the precautionary principle, phasing out substances suspected of being harmful in good time before legislation is passed.
- We see our responsibilities in the larger perspective of global sustainable development: we communicate what we are doing to inspire others and find out about what others are doing to inspire us to improve our own environmental performance.
